BIOGRAPHY OF WILLIAM POYNTZ, ESQ.

Extract from:

'Historical and Genealogical Memoir of the Family of Poyntz or Eight Centuries of an English House'
by Sir John Maclean, FSA, Honourable Member of the Royal Institution of Cornwall etc.

Only Thirty Copies Printed

(Publishers Exeter: Privately Printed for the Subscribers by William Pollard and Company, North Street, 1886)

William Poyntz, son and heir of Stephen Poyntz, was born early in 1734 and was baptised at St Martin's in the Fields, Westminster, in April of that year, the Earl of Peterborough with the Queen, and the Duke of Cumberland being spousers. He matriculated at Oxford as from Christchurch on 17th January, 1752, described as the son of Stephen Poyntz, Esquire, of St Martin's, Westminster, aged seventeen. He took his BA degree 22nd June, 1756, and proceeded MA 26th June, 1760. He had succeeded to his estates on the death of his father in 1750. He married at St James', Westminster, 22nd April, 1762, Isabella Courtenay, daughter of Kelland Courtenay, of Painsford, County Devon,[1] second son of Sir William Courtenay of Powderham, by Elizabeth, daughter of Alexander Popham, of Littlecote, County Wiltshire, by his wife, Lady Anne Montagu, daughter of Ralph Duke of Montagu. Mrs Poyntz died at Midgeham of apoplexy 21st April 1805, at the age of sixty three.[2]

William Poyntz made no great figure in the country, as his father had done, but appears to have lived quietly on his estate, and, judging from his portrait, a noble full length by Gainsborough,[3] he took pleasure in the sports of the field. He is represented as carrying a gun, accompanied by a dog,[4] They are protected by a hollow tree, a favourite object in Gainsborough's pictures, near a willow brook as on the lookout for water fowl. He died 13th May, 1809, aged seventy five, and his will is registered in 576 Loveday. He was buried at Midgham, where there is a monument to his memory.

William Poyntz left issue seven children, three sons and four daughters, some of them remarkable in their generation.

1 Anne, Kelland Courtenay's other daughter married Edmund seventh Earl of Cork which marriage was dissolved in 1782 and with other issue had a son Courtenay who in 1799 married Caroline Amelia daughter of William Poyntz

2 To the Gentleman's Magazine and Annual Register for May 1805

3 The original is in the possession of Earl Spencer who lent it to the collection of National Portraits exhibited at South Kensington a few years ago.

The Fox Hounds threw off at Clatford Oak Hills where they found several Foxes, one of which they ran for a considerable time in the Covert, but finding it a vixen
the Hounds were taken off to an halloo where another had stolen off, they pursued him through Ipsteley Wood & Galleards almost to her Cubs at Quarley, where they came to a long check, & casting back, they recovered the Fox
in Ampord Wood, belonging to Mr G Powlett & ran him very hard through Ampord Park & Passing several small Copsies through Stone hanger back to Clatford Oak Hills, he there again broke Covert, & was killd, after a very severe & long hunt, in a small wood close by Red Rice ———

The Fox Hounds threw off at Cowdown near Hursborne Park & found at Hogdeyes after running hard an hour round the Cover, the Fox went off by New Barns & crossd the River at the Village of Bourne, where most of the Gentlemen were thrown out as the meadows there were under Water the Hounds went directly up the Hill to Longrove & by Mr Farms to the Edge of Dowles Wood, but they had preserd him so hard, that he left the wood & crossd the River between Hursborne Tyrrant & Stoke, from thence went through the middle Riding of Doiley round Thackams Wood, leaving it to the left, to the edge of Ashonsworth Wood from thence he Pointed towards the Village of Netherton where he was headed & came back through part of Thackams Wood to the Green Lane leading from Netherton to Hursborne Tyrrant, where he was killed, after a chace of above two Hours.

N.B.
By this running back many of the Gentlemen who were thrown out were in at the death.
