Mar. 13 1778

2811

Your Majesty's servants have met this evening, & after having deliberated on many objects, have determined to postpone the final decision of them till tomorrow, when the matters may be better arranged & the persons more enabled to decide. The only matter to be humbly proposed to your Majesty tonight is, that an order be immediately this night sent to Lord Stormont to direct him to leave Paris without taking leave; a draught of the letter is annex'd, & will be immediately dispatch'd, if your Majesty shall approve.
