My dearest Brother
We arrived at Windsor a quarter before 10 o'clock full of all your kindness to the real happiness I had in seeing you looking so much better than I expected.
I hope you are not fatigued after all the trouble you have gone through & that Mr Perry may bring a good account to-morrow & spare us you are not the more for the exertions of today will be a great comfort to my feelings. I can not tell you how much I admire your patience & perseverance to every thing we do. The Rings had passed a more unpleasant day than yesterday the fact is we are now going upon the eating plan

As it is impossible to let him have all he calls for, it causes much irritation He must be put in a storm to struggle it did not last long it was my interest for the time - God bless You to believe me ever

Yours affly
J. P. Macey
